PRESS KIT

UNYQ is the daring revolutionizer of the med-tech sector creating innovative mass customized medical wearables. We are introducing cost efficiency through innovative 3D printing technologies to customized high end products such as prosthetic covers and sockets, that are simultaneously aesthetically beautiful yet practical and functional. UNYQ combines the identification of unique needs for unique individuals with the ability to provide high technology mass production.

Our mission

UNYQ which stands for “unique”, epitomizes our attitude and ambition: we’re a passionate and committed team, unified by our mission to create a community of individuals wanting to be themselves independent of their health and lifestyle.

Our vision

Every day, we’re searching for new ways to inspire, and come up with out-of-the-box design to allow individuals in need for prosthetic and orthotic wears to personalize it and make it their own. But it’s not only about personalization – our team works closely with clinicians, dedicated to elevating their trade providing state of the art digital tools and designs. That balanced approach has helped us revolutionize our industry, and we’re just getting started.
